This year, over 110,000 members of the Notre Dame family came together to make Notre Dame happen.

That’s right, the instagrammable campus, the inspiring professors, the incomparable student experience—none of this would be possible without the support and generosity of our passionate alumni, parents, and friends.

So, why are so many individuals moved to give back to Notre Dame? Because of you—our incredible student body.

As a university, we are very other-centric: we like to understand others, show empathy, and take action. This year, through dorm signature events and other initiatives, we raised over $140,000 benefiting 46 charitable organizations in South Bend and around the world. And that doesn’t include the $382,887 raised by our Student Calling Center for financial aid. Or the $2.2 million raised for our dorms and clubs, centers and institutes, academic groups and more through Notre Dame Day.

With so much good happening on campus, we wanted to take a moment to highlight some of these initiatives and their impact. Thank you for raising awareness, raising funds, and raising the bar.

Together, we can show the world what we’re fighting for!

Assistant Director, Student Philanthropy
Notre Dame Day

Notre Dame Day is the chance for the global ND family to celebrate all things ND and give back to the areas most important to them - all while gaining a portion of the million dollar challenge fund! Highlights from this year’s 29-hour live broadcast included the inaugural Fighting Irish 40-Yard Dash and a performance by two actors from the Chicago cast of “Hamilton,” Ari Afsar and Joseph Morales.

Class of 2017 Senior Legacy

The Class of 2017 raised money to give a memorial bench in honor of Daniel Kim, Theresa Sagartz, and Jake Scanlan. When giving a bench, not only do you carve out a special place on campus for the honored individuals, but you also further their impact as half of the funds go towards financial aid. The bench can be found at the North Entrance of the Hesburgh Library.
